Baby Shoe Rock-Gene Gurr in the Center

It was a beautiful, crisp, spring day when we started our ride. Gene was our guide and he knew this country like the back of his hand. We went northwest, overland, and then followed a draw, traversing some outcrops and gully's where the spring run-off had gone through. We stopped at Baby Shoe Rock to take pictures, rest our horses and started back, again going overland and not following any trails or roads. Our ride was a little over 8 miles in length and a good workout for the horses.
